

Webinar of 2020-11-19

Webinar for Standard Drafters: "Drafting for XML - Recap of the webinar series and refreshment of the Internal Regulations Part 3"

Questions & Answers

Questions asked by Attendees	Answers from the Presenter
Do you prefer paragraph break or soft-break in table header cells to place text at new line?	While there is no strict rule on soft vs hard returns in table headers, hard returns are far more practical in terms of styling content and correct layout. Soft returns can and often do lead to formatting issues, so hard returns are preferred.
According to current standardization request, standards shall not copy legal text into the standard? How to resolve this issue for harmonized standards?	This is an ongoing discussion regarding the general rule, and for any drafting guidance where directives and legislation are concerned, it is always best to contact production@cencenelec.eu first to be put in contact with an editor. We can then help on a case by case basis.